INTERNATIONAL SEARCH REPORT

International application No.

PCT/CA 99/00816

Box I Observations where certain claims were found unsearchable (Continuation of item 1 of first sheet)

This International Search Report has not been established in respect of certain claims under Article 17(2)(a) for the following reasons:

1. ☒ Claims Nos.:
because they relate to subject matter not required to be searched by this Authority, namely:
Remark: Although claim 5 is directed to a method of treatment of the human/animal body, the search has been carried out and based on the alleged effects of the compound/composition.
2. ☐ Claims Nos.:
because they relate to parts of the International Application that do not comply with the prescribed requirements to such an extent that no meaningful International Search can be carried out, specifically:
3. ☐ Claims Nos.:
because they are dependent claims and are not drafted in accordance with the second and third sentences of Rule 6.4(a).

Box II Observations where unity of invention is lacking (Continuation of item 2 of first sheet)

This International Searching Authority found multiple inventions in this international application, as follows:

1. ☐ As all required additional search fees were timely paid by the applicant, this International Search Report covers all searchable claims.
2. ☐ As all searchable claims could be searched without effort justifying an additional fee, this Authority did not invite payment of any additional fee.
3. ☐ As only some of the required additional search fees were timely paid by the applicant, this International Search Report covers only those claims for which fees were paid, specifically claims Nos.:
4. ☐ No required additional search fees were timely paid by the applicant. Consequently, this International Search Report is restricted to the invention first mentioned in the claims; it is covered by claims Nos.:

Remark on Protest

- ☐ The additional search fees were accompanied by the applicant's protest.
- ☐ No protest accompanied the payment of additional search fees.

Re Item V

Reasoned statement under Article 35(2) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement

1. Reference is made to the following documents:

D1: WO 96 37514 A (THERATECHNOLOGIES INC) 28 November 1996 (1996-11-28)

D2: US-A-5 112 808 (COY DAVID H ET AL) 12 May 1992 (1992-05-12)

D3: US-A-4 914 189 (SCHALLY ANDREW V ET AL) 3 April 1990 (1990-04-03)

2. Novelty (Art. 33(2) PCT)

The present application relates to hydrophobic Growth hormone Releasing Factor (GRF) analogs with increased potency and prolonged activity and their potential application to treat growth hormone deficiencies. The problem of GRF instability and low anabolic potency was solved by anchoring an hydrophobic tail comprising a "rigidifying moiety" via an amid bond to its N-terminus in order to obtain an hydrophobic GRF analog with an increased biological potency and prolonged activity.

The exactly same approach was used and detailed in D1. However, D1 refers to chimeric fatty acid GRF analogs obtained by including an hydrophobic tail anchored to the GRF N- terminus. The GRF analog obtained exhibits an increased biological potency.

The present application differs from D1 by the addition of specific hydrophobic tails that include rigidifying substituents within the backbone (claim 1) which were not taught in D1-D3.

In summary, claims 1-10 appear to be novel over the available prior art. Therefore, said claims meet the requirements of Article 33(2) PCT.

3. Inventive step (Art. 33(3) PCT)

The subject-matter of the claims 1-10 does not appear to involve an inventive step for the following reasons:

The present application relates to hydrophobic Growth hormone Releasing Factor (GRF) analogs with increased potency and prolonged activity and their potential application of growth hormone deficiencies.

The closest prior art D1 was already faced with the problem of instability of GRF and provided chimeric fatty acid GRF analogs obtained by including a hydrophobic tail anchored to the GRF N-terminus. The GRF analog obtained exhibits an increased biological potency, being able to increase the production of growth hormone and Insulin-like Growth Factor I (IGF-I) in an animal model.

The problem to be solved by the present invention vis à vis D1 may be regarded as the provision of alternative GRF analogs with identical increased biological potency. The problem was solved by the application by using new chemical moieties that are suitable for the hydrophobic tail of the GRF analog. Such moieties do not show special new technical effects in addition to the increased potency (D1 and the present application share the exact same examples concerning the biological effects of the hexanoyl hGRF). From D2-D3 it was known that the derivatization of GRF at its N-terminus could lead to the development of more potent and longer acting analogs. More specifically, the production of GRF analogs with hydrophobic tails showing an increased potency was already taught in D1 (using tail of C5 to C7 in length as discussed in page 9 of D1). In view of D1, it would have been obvious to a person skilled in the art to arrive at the claimed subject-matter using routine methods for testing a library of hydrophobic tails to be coupled with GRF. Therefore, in absence of evidence showing unknown or unexpected effects or properties of presently claimed subject-matter, the presence of an inventive step cannot be acknowledged for the choice, testing or synthesis of further hydrophobic tails attached to the N-terminus GRF peptide.

Consequently, no inventive step can be acknowledged for the claims 1-10. Thus, these claims do not meet the requirements of Article 33(3) PCT.
